

More Aggression by the International Money Trust

BY MARY M. DAVISON

AS THE INTERNATIONAL money trust—the Central Bankers of the World—wrestle with the loose ends of the Special Drawing Rights and Paper Gold Scheme, its “wise men” are pooling their resources to give this tired old world a royal rooking.

While they, the Money Trust, own and/or control the bulk of the world’s wealth, this is not enough for them. They want it all. In fact, in order to hold what they now have and intend to obtain, they must own it all and be prepared to defend their possessions with an invincible military establishment.

At present we find the Sixth Fleet courting disaster in the Mediterranean hovering over the Rockefeller and Eaton oil interests in Russia and the Arab States, and the 7th Fleet and Special Forces doing their thing in the area of the David Lillenthal-Lazard Freres world development operations in South-east Asia.

Now Rockefeller wants to arm the countries of Latin America. Nelson says he wants to protect them from “communism.” About this “communism” bit: Would any reasonable person believe that “communism” could have moved a foot if the wealthiest men and institutions in the world had been opposed to it? Common sense dictates that the money power as presently constituted could, and would have stopped “communism” overnight by simply freezing the money supply. They could have stopped—and still can—any war by the same method.

Control Through Money Trusts

The wealthiest men in the world, securely organized into an international Council on Foreign Relations, control all the governments in the world through the money trust—the interlocking Central Banking Systems. It is they who have brought “communism” to every land where it exists. Through this tyranny they have been building a world empire under cover of the United Nations.

Their big problem now is to get complete control of the armed forces of the United States which was provided for in the United Nations charter and supplemented by the Arms Control and Disarmament Act. They failed in Korea when General Douglas MacArthur asserted his authority, and they have, so far, failed in Vietnam because Congress became aroused as never before. They will continue to try because they have no alternative. For this reason the Rockefeller recommendation for the arming of the Latin American countries demands vigilance.

UN—The Master Planner

The United Nations claims a mandate under Article 55 of the Charter to rebuild and develop the world and make over everybody in the world, with a secret reservation that the self appointed Lords of Creation be excepted. They have made incredible progress with the aid of the Marshall Plan, foreign aid and innumerable other schemes at the expense of the American producer and taxpayer. Conglomerates and monopolies are being formed all over the world as the money lords consolidate their resources for the exploitation of the entire globe. Although the conglomerates had been forming in Asia, Africa and Latin America for a number of years, public attention was not directed to them until the Rockefellers and Cyrus Eaton merged.

The marriage of IBEC (International Basic Economy Corporation) and Tower International (Eaton) was of earth-shaking (literally) significance, and paved the way for a vast international conglomerate to be dominated by the Rothschilds. In this connection it is well to remember that the International Monetary Fund's Special Drawing Rights is headed by an official of the Rothschild Bank in France. The world's gold is being diverted to this international money monopoly and will be used as collateral for the distribution of paper currency, in much the same manner as the Federal Reserve System has operated here, to the destruction of our entire monetary system.

Rockefeller Lobbies

To divert for a moment, the Rockefellers have always hated the South and have, for half a century financed, through their various Foundations and otherwise, a continual program of racial harassment. Now prior to the launching of these worldwide conglomerates the Rockefellers and their international banker associates lobbied for the abolition of the protective tariffs. Under the title, the Kennedy Round, tariffs have been lowered to such extent that textiles have been ruined.

The South has been hardest hit.

The States of Georgia and Alabama, the largest poultry area in the United States, will suffer grievously as poultry and eggs are shipped into their markets.

Nixon Appoints Rockefeller

Richard M. Nixon was, until his election, a dweller in the Rockefeller apartment building at Rockefeller Center in New York. When he became President, he appointed Nelson Rockefeller to make a survey of the Latin American countries to guide the Administration in setting up its "aid" program in that area. This survey is nothing new for Mr. Rockefeller. He was there before.

The Latin Americans remember the last Rockefeller expedition and Rocky's reception was less than enthusiastic. Perhaps the most significant of Rockefeller's recommendations is that the Latin American countries be armed to the teeth in order that they may keep the peace and fight "communism."

The Latin Americans remember that in 1940 the draft-exempt Nelson Rockefeller was appointed by Franklin D.

Roosevelt as "Co-Ordinator of Inter-American Affairs," and moonlighted the creation of IBEC. Rockefeller investments in Latin America were stupendous by any standard.

Now it appears that the Latin Americans, instead of hailing their "benefactor," will not permit him to leave the airports. Nelson thinks, and recommends, that they need standing armies to protect themselves against "communism" and to "keep the peace." He also thinks the Government in Washington should create a new and glorified cabinet post to be headed by a man of superior wisdom and thoroughly familiar with the problems of Latin America.

Another "Security Council"

The suggested title for the new post is: Western Hemisphere Security Council. Like the United Nations Security Council, it would be to "deal with military threats," with a promise of U.S. response for military training missions and equipment to deal with "subversion." As inducement to the Latin Americans to welcome this package they are to be assured of unlimited, one-way North-bound trade and, of course, gifts which will exceed a combination of Marshall Plan and Alliance for Progress.

The "co-ordinator," armed with that kind of money and a well-staffed army to protect it—and him—should be able to put together a baronial agricultural and industrial structure. And, Rocky is right. It will require a skilled and experienced hand to manage it.

Another "Deal" for the Latins

The colonization of Latin America has been long in the making. During the Kennedy administration the Alliance for Progress was launched with flaming oratory and regal pomp and ceremony. Then it was allowed to fizzle out during the Johnson years. When Johnson played The Price Is Right, it had to be just right or there would be no deal. Now while the Latin Americans are remembering the last Deal they got from Rocky it behooves the American taxpayer and producer to review past Inter-American relations a la Rockefeller and then warn his alleged Representatives in Washington.

Remember the old slogan: This time the world, or as Elmo Roper stated the proposition: "Our goal is government of all the world." They mean it. And, the "Paper Gold" and "Special Drawing Rights" of the United Nations International Monetary Fund are clear evidence that the "goal" is in sight. The un-elected self-styled "intellectuals" who have ruled this country for their masters in Wall Street for the past 35 years have come to the end of the road. One of the most proficient destroyers now heads the U.S. World Bank which intends to re-distribute the wealth of the world. Congress could yet defeat this if the people will command Congress to assert the power of the people, but the people must speak up loud and clear.

Declaration of Independence

ALTHOUGH the Declaration of Independence was original with Thomas Jefferson, he actually put little into it that was new. Its major ideas had been previously discussed and written about by John Locke and Robert Bellarmine, for example. Locke (1632-1704) an Englishman, discussed much that is in the Declaration in his book, On Civil Government, a defense of the English Revolution of 1688. Some of his ideas also show up in the U.S. Constitution. Bellarmine (1542-1621) was a Roman Catholic cardinal and theologian, born in Italy. He wrote against the heresies of the day and about the relation of church and state.
